Right-Wing Hangover

An OpEdNews.com Article, a My.BarackObama.com Blog Entry, and An E-Mail to Progressive Activists

The Right complaining about all the time, effort, and expense that will be required to clean up the mess left behind by eight years of their policies under the Bush administration is like a bunch of spoiled frat boys with hangovers complaining about all the noise from the cleaning crew and all the bills for the breakage left in the wake of one of their drunken bashes. A little less complaining and a lot more help would be sorely appreciated.
